

A scene

There is silence
in a house
after the rampage
that amplifies
the sushing of the broom
as it sweeps away, again,
things broken
and sets to right
the stage
for acts of forced civility and a tepid peace
achieved through destruction.